We don't want our meter readers to have a 'ruff' day

Mark the date your meter is due to be read, if there's a dog nearby, they need to be suitably restrained on this day.

If our team can't access your meter,
they'll leave a card in your letterbox.

It'll ask you to read the meter yourself and tell us the results within five working days, so we can send you an accurate bill. Find out how at wannonwater.com.au/meter-readings/

Lismore Progress Association acknowledges and pays respects to the Wadawurrung people, the traditional custodians of the unceded lands where we live and work. We extend this respect to all First Nations Elders and people past, present and future.

Always was, always will be.

MAX STEWART 1938 to 2026

With sincere condolences to Lyn, his daughter Fiona and his extended family

There are 80 year olds in Lismore who remember his sports goods shop, (where there is now the Shell Servo), the striped barber's pole outside, and good conversations as their hair was cut,

Max and his first wife Susan moved to Queensland where he worked for TAA then Qantas, moved to Geelong, continued to visit his parents in Lismore and bought land on the Gnarpurt Road. His funeral was in Lismore this month

Avoid the frightful fatberg!

We worry about what you put down your toilet and sink every day - and you should too!

A fatberg is a massive accumulation of solid waste largely consisting of fats, oils, disposable wipes, and other sanitary items.

If you flush these things, they can build up and get stuck in your home's plumbing or septic system, or even our sewerage network. This can create a nasty fatberg that blocks your pipes and leads to costly repairs!

Remember:

- Dispose of personal hygiene items such as wipes, sanitary products and cotton buds in a rubbish bin.
- Put oily products like excess cooking oil and unused milk in sealed containers and into a bin.
