Good Wishes to Lismore Memorial Bowls

This bowling season has gotten off to a good start, after 5 rounds of competitive pennant games Lismore is sitting in 3rd place on the ladder. We have played 2 games at home and two games away.
The games have been good with players settling in to the comp and finding their way within their respective teams. The green is coming along nicely thanks to John Trotter and his helpers. Our next home game will be Saturday 28th November, after travelling to Derrinallum on the 21st.
Friday night each week from approx. 4pm is practice night and anyone who would like to come and have a roll is most welcome There is always someone to help, or you are welcome to just watch and meet the members. At 34 William St. Lismore: Lyn Brown.

Just a Farmer – A Night of Community, Connection and Conversation

What a wonderful and meaningful evening we shared as a community, with people coming together from across our local townships and surrounding districts to watch Just a Farmer.

I'm usually in the kitchen as a movie finishes, listening for the laughter, applause and chatter that signal the end of a good film. But this night was different. As the credits rolled, there was a quietness across the hall. The audience was sombre, reflective and clearly moved by what they had just watched. It was a powerful reminder of how deeply the film's message resonates within rural communities.

We were fortunate to have Leila McDougall, the film's creator and lead actress, join us for the evening. Leila has a wonderful way of connecting with people, and she knew just how to gently lift the mood. She encouraged everyone to turn to the person beside them and give them a hug. It was such a simple gesture, but it broke the silence, brought warmth back into the room and reminded us all of the importance of human connection.

Leila then shared the story behind the making of the film, the challenges they faced along the way and her own family's experiences with mental health. Her honesty, warmth and down-to-earth nature encouraged questions and open discussion about mental health, suicide awareness and recognising when someone might be struggling. Her farming anecdotes and stories also brought some much-needed smiles and laughter, helping everyone feel comfortable talking about subjects that are not always easy to discuss.

It was wonderful to have representatives from South West Healthcare there too, providing an opportunity for people to learn more about the support available in our region and to have conversations with those who understand the challenges faced by rural communities.

But perhaps the most special part of the evening was what happened afterwards.

Rather than everyone simply heading home, conversations sprang up throughout the hall and continued over a cuppa and supper. People of different ages, from different townships and walks of life, stayed to talk, share stories and connect. Leila was kept busy chatting with locals, while others took the opportunity to speak with the healthcare representatives or simply spend time with their neighbours.

And really, that was what the night was all about.

In small rural communities, we are often very good at getting on with things, but not always as good at talking about the struggles we face. This evening gave people a reason to come together, an opportunity to listen and, most importantly, a chance to start conversations that might otherwise never happen.

Having 65 people in our hall, representing a wonderful mix of ages and surrounding communities, was a fantastic turnout. But the real success wasn't just in the number of people who attended. It was in the conversations, the connections and the sense of togetherness that filled the hall long after the movie had finished.

If everyone went home a little more aware of the struggles someone else might be facing, a little more willing to ask if someone is okay, or a little more comfortable reaching out for support themselves, then the evening achieved something truly worthwhile.

Sometimes the most important thing we can do for our community is simply bring people together, open the door to conversation and remind each other that no one has to face life's challenges alone.

Just a Farmer was screened at Darlington Hall on Friday 16 October.

Baby echidnas are hidden snugly in their mother's pouches on the slopes of Mt Leura and Mt Sugarloaf, Camperdown

Known as willing allik by the Djargurd Whurrong traditional owners, echidnas' breed between July and September.

After successfully mating, the female lays a single egg from which a baby – known as a puggle – hatches in about 10 days. It will stay in the mother's pouch for up to 60 days.

Mt Leura and Mt Sugarloaf Management Committee Chair Caroline Duynhoven encouraged dog walkers to keep the wildlife safe by having their pets on lead at the Mount Leura and Mount Sugarloaf reserves.

"The mounts are wonderful places for people and their dogs to enjoy the walking trails and stunning views and see native wildlife in its natural habitat.

"Dogs must be kept on a lead at all times throughout the reserves. Even the most friendly and well-behaved dog can unintentionally disturb wildlife.
